PROFESSIONAL STATEMENTS

Membership of the CNHC Register is subject to:

A Practitioner Details

These are supplied in Application Form from CNHC

B Practitioner agreement as follows:

1 to abide by:

1.1 The Statement of Professional Principles and Values, on Page 6.

2 the practitioner must agree to maintain advertising and communications standards:

2.1 Practitioners shall report accurately their status and relationship with the CNHC in all relevant publications aimed at patients, students, and the public.

2.2 Publicity, advertising and other literature shall represent the practitioner's education, qualifications and areas of expertise to patients and the public, in language which is accurate, honest and unambiguous.

2.3 Publicity and advertising shall not misrepresent possible outcomes of Massage therapy consultations.

3 Within the scope of their practice practitioners shall meet the minimum standards for safe and effective practice as outlined in the NOS and:

3.1 Agree to maintain a competent knowledge of the CNHC Codes of Ethics, Conduct & Practice

3.2 Follow a programme of Continuing Professional Development which meets the requirements of the CNHC.

Statement of Professional Principles and Values

The practice of Massage therapy seeks to be:

- patient-centred – patients are at the centre of the therapeutic process and their individual experiences of health and illness are acknowledged and respected;
- responsive – the practitioner engages with, and responds to, the changes in the patient's condition over time, and integrates the patient's evolving priorities and choices;
- enabling – creating opportunities for patients to learn about themselves and their health and supporting them in making informed choices, which may advance the healing process;
- compassionate – an approach that brings sensitivity, empathy, humility and compassion to the therapeutic relationship;
- effective – the practitioner strives to achieve effective outcomes in the treatment of patients;
- non-maleficent – safe, avoiding doing harm, maintaining high standards of cleanliness, knowing when and where treatment is contra-indicated, and taking responsibility for referral where appropriate;
- practice-led – understanding that nutritional therapy evolves and develops from a synthesis of practice, knowledge and experience, where practice is both values based, evidence based and experience generated;
- preventive – the practitioner may identify dysfunction, often before symptoms of disease are present, and may work with the patient to restore and maintain good health;
- collaborative – working with colleagues and other professionals to ensure that the patient receives the best possible care and advice;
- accountable – practitioners individually and collectively are committed to transparent systems of accountability;
- competent – practitioners have a commitment to practising competently, which includes knowing the limits of their competence to recognising that professional judgements are open to question; and to building their knowledge and skills base by engaging in continuing professional development;
- ethical – where personal and professional boundaries are monitored and maintained, confidentiality is upheld, dignity is respected, informed consent is ensured and trust is honoured;
- innovative – every therapeutic encounter brings with it the potential for a fresh, innovative, evidence based response and for the development of the practitioner's capability and the patient's self-awareness;
- reflective – engaging in an ongoing and cumulative process of self-evaluation with cycles of reflection, deliberation and action.

ROUTE 3 CASE STUDY TEMPLATE

Please ensure that you maintain patient confidentiality in any material that you submit.

Case Study Instructions - please ensure that you read these

1. Word count: approx 2000-3000. Support material, which must be submitted with your application, is not included in the word count.
2. Use ARIAL 12
3. Applicant number and case study number should be on all pages which must be numbered.
4. Submit two carefully chosen, detailed and contrasting case studies taking into account the following points:
 - Case studies should be within your defined scope of practise*, if you are a Route 3 applicant.
 - Use appropriate technical language when writing your case study but ensure that handouts and other patient/client material is client orientated.
 - Each case study should be complete, with at least two subsequent consultations.
 - You do not need to include more than one example of any point within the NOS e.g. one massage routine, one after care analysis, one adaptation of treatment.
 - You should demonstrate reflective practice throughout.
 - As you write up each case study you should demonstrate your knowledge, understanding and skill. As a Route 3 candidate you should work within your scope of practice.
5. Bullet points, tables or any method of your choosing that is clear and concise is the preferred method of presentation.
6. Please ensure that your case studies are placed in a plastic envelope and your applicant number is clearly visible.

Scope of Practise - is a terminology that defines the range of procedures, actions, and processes that allow a massage practitioner to perform their skills . The scope of practice is limited to that which the massage practitioner has received education and experience, and in which he/she has demonstrated competency.

CASE STUDY TEMPLATE

Please ensure that you maintain patient confidentiality in any material that you submit.
